MR. BLAINE says if Republican voters come to the polls on Tuesday next, rain or shine, good roads or muddy roads, good weather or bad weather, Benjamin Harrison and Levi P. Morton will be the next President and Vicepresident. As usual, Mr. Blaine is right.

THE Democrats throughout the State have received instructions to vote all the young men they can between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one, in order to offset the large preponderance of lawful first voters who will cast their ballots for the Republican ticket. Watch them.

No man who thinks that the Coy-Sullivan-Harrison cholera-hog-maggoty-butter ring should be ousted from the control of the be nevolent institutions, and that better election laws should be passed, will vote for candi dates for the Legislature nominated by the Coy-Sullivan-Harrison gang.

THE Sentinel says that Levi P. Morton is interested in the great Salt "Trust" in England. Of course it is false; but, bless your dear heart, we thought there were no such things as "trusts" in free-trade England! The Sentinel, as the organ of British free trade, was caught napping that time.

IT will be very uncomfortable for Lord Burchard-Sackville if he stays in this country until after election. The enraged Democrats will lay all the blame of the result on his shoulders, and may take it into their heads to use personal violence. If he doesn't go, it might be wise to barricade the British head-

THE New York World of Aug. 17, 1880, contains an account of the advancement by Levi P. Morton of $50,000 to the suffering workingmen who had been employed on the Rockaway Beach Hotel, and who had over $110,000 due them, and the contractors were STILL the News does not say for what Democratic candidates Independent Republicans with the itch of self-conceit should "scratch." The man who believes in the necessity of be nevolent asylum reform and better election methods, and then votes for candidates nominated by the Cov-Sullivan-Harrison corrupt ring, is either a hypocrite or a dolt.

WHEN the Indiana Democracy and their "good schemes" fall with a dull thud, on Tuesday night, a great work will have been done for public morals and pure elections. It is not likely that the State will ever again be subjected to the curse of Democratic "boodle' and the spawn of the slums and hell-holes, i the present gigantic attempt shall fail.

THE Indiana Republican is compelled to be a versatile individual as election day ap proaches. At one moment he is doing a little quiet missionary work with a doubtful voter, and the next minute he transforms himself into a detective and runs down a man concerning whom there is no doubt at all that he means to vote the Democratic ticket early and

THE fact that election frauds are violations of United States laws, and that crooks caught in this State are likely to be brought to trial before a court that cannot be swayed by partisan arguments, is one that interferes seriously with Democratic plans in Indiana. The once willing "workers" remember Cov. and are showing a reluctance to carry out the oldtime schemes.

ACCORDING to the administration organs Democratic voters in Connecticut are being 'intimidated." Well, hardly. In the first place, Republicans have not adopted Louisiana methods, and if they had, would be too knowing to use them on Yankee voters, who are so curiously constructed that they would straightway risk their lives to vote any ticket they were ordered not to vote.

THE Journal vesterday received from At anta additional evidence that Mr. Bynum made that speech there, in which he slandered the industries of Indianapolis and libeled the honest workingmen of the city. The letter from a perfectly reputable gentleman of Atlanta says that "it was common talk on the streets here that Mr. Bynum had made these declarations about the Indianapolis manufacturers and wage-earners."

THE Chicago Times must think the country one big pack of fools. It says the Republicans have given up Illinois. They have given up-the idea that any further work is necessary to carry the State for Harrison and Joe Fifer, other than to harvest the 25,000 plurality already as certain as 30,000 is in the State of Vermont. The public know the States that are doubtful. Such preposterous idiocy only shows the weakness and desperation of the Democratic cause.

WHEN the President's retaliation message was issued, in September, it was charged, and never specifically denied, that simultaneously with its transmission to Congress "a private communication was transmitted by | the interest of the party in power, the boythe government of the United States to the British government, at London, assuring it that it need have no anxiety as to any official action that would be taken under the authority that the President had asked of Congress if it should be granted." This disgraceful transaction was not only sufficient to give Lord Sackville authority for his statement in policy, but may also explain the British minister's reticence now. Perhaps he knows there is a string tied to his passports, and that they will be pulled in, and the little difficulty smoothed over if the election goes Cleveland's

TO-NIGHT'S PARADE.

Republicans, do not mind the mud to-night. Put on your walking-boots, and take part in the last demonstration of the campaign. It is extremely important that the parade be a representative one, as to numbers, character and behavior. Let the party turn out by thousands, and show the kind of people who are friends and supporters of General Harrison. Repecially let everyone be scrupulously careful to avoid any possible cause for criticism on the part of anybody. Steady, courteous, enthusiastic, let the streets be filled with the marching hosts of the Republican party. Keep in line, and keep in good temper.

FRAUDS AND FORGERIES.

The Democratic campaign has progressed beyond the point where mere lying will do any good, and is now devoted entirely to planning and executing frauds.

As long as there seemed to be any hope of injuring General Harrison by the circulation of falsehoods concerning him, the energies of the Democratic managers were directed to that end, but as the election approaches they are devoting themselves exclusively to arrangements for the perpetration of fraud. Never before in the history of Indiana have such extensive and elaborate preparations been made to debauch the ballot-box and carry an election by fraud and crime as are now being made by the Democratic managers and outside rascals who have been sent here to instruct and assist them.

One of the Democratic managers, who was recently asked on what they based their expectation of carrying the State, replied: our good schemes-we have so many good

It is observable that they nowhere and at no time claimed to have made gains on the tariff question, or among the old soldiers, or among the first voters at all approaching those made by the Republicans. They depend entirely on their "good schemes."

The proofs that are cropping out and coming to light all over the State show that the Democracy are preparing to attempt every kind and variety of election fraud known to masters of the art, and are confidently relying on this to wipe out the honest Republican

Every mail brings us new proof of the lavish distribution of money to be used in corrupting voters, and ocular evidence of some new scheme of fraud, each one evidently being relied upon to do its part and contribute to the general result.

Perhaps the most dangerous of these frauds. next to the open purchase of votes, is the double-ticket fraud, by which two ballots are folded together in such a way as to escape detection before they are dropped in the box, when they unfold and spring apart. This has been a favorite Democratic scheme for many years in cities where it was necessary to use fraud, and an attempt is now to be made to try it on a large scale in Indiana.

Chairman Huston, of the Republican committee, proposed to Chairman Jewett, of the Democratic committee, that both parties should unite in instructing inspectors when they take a ballot from a voter to place a small rubber band around it, so that, if two or more ballots are folded together, they cannot come apart in the box. Chairman Jewett declined the proposition.

The only way for Republicans to meet this double-ticket fraud, and all other frauds, is to stand at the polls all day and challenge every person offering to vote whom they do no know or whom they suspect of fraudulent in-

Indianapolis is now overrun with profespolice as such, and advices from other town and cities show the same state of things. The State must be made too hot for these scoun drels. If Republicans allow themselves to be overridden by them they will deserve to be de-

One arrest and one clear case made early in the day against a double-ticket voter wil frighten the whole gang, but the time to strike is while the iron is hot.

Unless Republicans show good grit and plenty of it, they may be cheated out of victory which is fairly and honestly theirs.

The Democratic campaign of fraud pre sumes on the lack of interest, the lack of vigilance or the cowardice of Republicans to enable them to work their schemes.

It remains to be seen if Republicans can not get up as early, stay up as late, and show as much bravery and sand for a fair election as Democrats can for an unfair one.

A brave and unflinching adherence to the law and to legal methods ought to be, and probably will be, sufficient to preserve the purity of the ballot and secure a fair election, but Republicans must be prepared to maintain their rights.

There is no better cause to contend for that honest elections and a pure ballot, and the time and place to do it is exactly when and where they are threatened.

THE POSTOFFICE THIEVES.

There is no more alarming feature in the campaign than the wholesale prostitution and tampering with the mails. We do not refer now to the demoralization of the postal service by the employment of unfit and incompetent men, whereby the commercial and social correspondence of the country has been thrown into confusion, but to the violations of law in cotting of Republican correspondence and the actual tampering with the mails.

A prominent railroad man said, yesterday: "The present condition of the postal service is the strongest possible argument, to my mind, against government control of the telegraph. Suppose, in this campaign, the telegraph, as well as the mails, were controlled by the Demever he thinks they can get in their work. If I the Murchison letter regarding Cleveland's | ocratic party, Republicans would have to send all their correspondence by express." The point is well taken as an argument against government control of the telegraph, though, for the honor of American politics, it is hardly fair to make this administration a criterion. The Democratic party inherits a tendency to proscriptive and arbitrary methods from way back. In former times the Southern mails were closely watched and purged of "incendiary" matter. Under Buchanan's administration the publishers of Republican newspapers were subjected to all sorts of annoyances and disabilities, but not even then were the laws violated or the mails tampered with as

If Cleveland should happen to be re-elected -a calamity we do not think probable-there should be a united demand from the people irrespective of party, for a purification of th mail service. There is no surer sign of a corupt and decaying government than a prosti tution of the mails.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE. The Journal replies to a whole bundle o questions in this paragraph. When a man moves into the State six months before the date of the election, with the intention to become a bona fide resident, and has resided for sixty days in the township and thirty days n the election precinct, he is entitled to vote It makes no possible difference when his house hold goods or personal effects may arrive. As we have before said, it is the man who votes, and not a cooking-stove or a pair of Sunday breeches. There is no qualification as t household goods or effects; the qualifications go to the man.

AN ADMINISTRATION OF "REFORM." "Reform" was the Democratic campaign cry of 1884. If Mr. Cleveland was elected it was promised that he would institute numberless improvements in the public service; that he would do away with abuses which it was raguely intimated were many and flagrant; that, in short, his administration would be phenomenally pure, and economical, as efficient. To any one fully acquainted with the record of the Democratic party these promises should at once have been recognized as preposterous; but a few were misled by them, and they, with the help of the third party, and the thousands of New York votes which Ben Butler says were cast for him and counted for Cleveland, elected the latter gentleman on a reform basis. For four years the public has been on the lookout for those wonderful reforms, but, instead, what has seen? A government service which has deteriorated in every department, from the chief executive's office down. has seen a President who has deliberately ignored all pledges relating to the improvement of the civil service, who has, time and again, transgressed the spirit, if not the letter, of the law passed by Republicans, and has shown himself the most shameless of spoilsmen. Among his subordinates and advisers they have seen no disposi-

Senator Sherman has shown how the finances of the country have been misman aged; that, in spite of all the hue and cry about a "surplus," the Democrats have in creased that surplus; that, instead of redeeming the Nation's bonds, they have loaned millons to private individuals; that, instead reducing expenses, they have spent ninety millions more than did the Republicans during their last four years of authority.

In the State Department the same incom petence is displayed. Secretary Bayard has shown a singular lack of capacity to handle foreign questions. The giving up to England of the few rights held by Americans in the fisheries matter was a glaring instance of his unfitness for the position he holds, but the same incapacity has been shown in num-

The head of the War Department has dis tinguished himself in no other way than to acquiesce in the President's order returning the rebel flags, and in waging war upon the "Republican" women and children employed at the United States arsenals. The Secretary of the Navy has not been prominent in any other way than as a political 'worker."

The Attorney-general bears a smirched reputation from his two-fold connection with the government telephone cases.

Scandal has touched the Interior Department, with charges that the Land Office has been manipulated in the interest of speculators, and rumor points to the present Secretary as one who has profited not a little by the schemes of the ring.

As for the Pension Bureau, its prostitution nto a political machine has long been notorious.

The disorganization of the postal service is a matter with which every citizen who uses the mails is familiar, and is one of the most outrageous abuses of the administration. This is the record of the party which went in flying a "reform" banner. It not only found no abuses to reform when it "opened the books," but it immediately proceeded to injure and break down the service by giving the affairs of the government into the hands of men ignorant, incompetent, often dishonest, and with no qualifications other than their Democracy. This year the hypocritical reform cry is heard less frequently. They want the offices, and only the offices, and make no unnecessary and useless pretenses of virtue. "Reformers" of four years ago who vote for Cleveland this year must throw off the reform

THE PROSECUTING ATTORNEYSHIP.

The extraordinary means used to re elect Prosecutor Mitchell and defeat Mr. Tincher indicate some desperate purpose. Such outrageous misrepresentations, bold and indecent lying, and shameless hypocrisy were never before used in the advocacy of a man to a local office. Major Mitchell has not been so conspicuous a prosecutor as to render it high treason for an honorable man to contend with him for the office. Somebody was responsible for the escape of the taily-sheet gang from the county grand jury room. The liquor law violators have not been prosecuted to any undue extremity. Major Mitchell is on the hunt for votes, and while his organ holds him up as a paragon of perfection, in whose nouth butter would not melt, he himself is making a personal canvass of the breweries. He will receive the large majority of what may be called the liquor vote, as will all the Democratic candidates. Mr. Tincher is as honorable a man as Mr. Mitchell, and the attacks and imputations made upon him should insure him the loyal support of Republican voters.

DARED TO REPRINT THIS ANSWER. We asked the Journal, several days ago, to name one manufacturing establishment in In-diana that will close its doors or reduce wages n the event of Cleveland's re-election. The Journal has not done so. We again respectfully invite the Journal to respond to this very civil question. - Sentinel.

This is political pettifogging. We might s well challenge the Sentinel to name one manufacturing establishment that will not extend and enlarge its operations if Harrison is elected. We know of some that will.

Manufacturers do not fear Cleveland s much as what he represents. They do fear free trade and the Mills bill, and thousands of them believe the manufacturing interests of the country will be ruined if the Demo cratic party should carry out the programme and policy mapped out for it by Cleveland and foreshadowed by the Mills bill.

The Sentinel intimates that there is not manufacturing establishment in Indiana that will close its doors or reduce wages in the event of Cleveland's re-election. The Journal has printed the protests of scores of them against the passage of the Mills bill, which partially embodies Cleveland's views and a first step in the direction of free trade. The pendency of that bill, and the menace involved in the attitude of the President and the Democratic party towards the business interests of the country, has injured trade to an normous extent, and unsettled commercial confidence everywhere.

Right here at home C. E. Geisendorff & Co. said during the session of Congress: "If the Mills bill passes we shall not turn a wheel this winter." Mr. George Merritt said: "The passage of the bill would destroy the wool industry and woolen manufacturing in the West." The Woodburn-Sarven wheel-works have postponed extensive improvements to see what the result of the election will be The treasurer of the rolling-mill company says: "If Cleveland is elected everything i gone to the dogs." Ninety-nine hundredths of all the manufacturers of Indiana feel the same way. Every manufacturer who has recently located in the natural-gas belt is working might and main against Cleveland and the Mills bill. Mr. D. P. Erwin says a manufacturing deal for Indianapolis involving a $15,000 plant has been postponed till after the election. Mr. C. A. Scott, of Cincinnati, names two negotiations for important manufactories in Indianapolis, that would have paid out $1,000 a day in wages, that were knocked in the head by the danger of the passage of the Mills bill.

The re-election of Cleveland means a con tinuance of this menace to business, and gradual realization of the dangers now foreshadowed.

DR. FLETCHER AND THE INSANE ASYLUM. The Sentinel makes a feeble attempt to defend the corrupt and nasty management of the Insane Hospital by asserting that the disclosures made by Dr. Fletcher, late superintendent, are actuated by partisan motives. Even if they were, that would make no difference if they are true. The question is not what actuates Dr. Fletcher, but whether he tells the truth when he says the hospital is "a cesspool of political corruption." His statements are abundantly corroborated by other evidence. both oral and record, and there is reason to believe the half has not been told. As to Dr. Fletcher's motives, it may be remarked that he bore witness to the mismanagement of the hospital long before he ceased to be superintendent and even before the investigation which brought the facts to light. On the 19th of January, 1885, he wrote to Senator Foulke, in a letter now before us: "The errors of the present system of management may be briefly mentioned as follows: First, The three trustees have absolute power to pack the house with political deadheads. whose only recommendation consists in the fact that they have rendered some political service to some Senator or Representative. and, as a matter of course, said Senators and Representatives stick to the board of trustees through thick and thin, right or wrong. You have no idea of the number of gentlemen of the Assembly on the Democratic side of the house who have sons, daughters, other blood relations, special pets, etc., in soft places. Second. The mode of purchase. The present system insures the purchase of the worst goods at the highest price. We would hardly put up a prescription to the lowest bid in the town unless we desired the most worthless drugs to be administered. An examination as to purchases will show that most of our supplies are bought on this plan, and are of a kind one would not purchase for themselves.'

This is but a mild foreshadowing of the facts brought out by the investigation, but shows that Dr. Fletcher's views as to th management of the hospital were framed long before he left it. Turn the rascals out.

"THE PENSION-PROMISE SWINDLE." In the campaign of 1884 the Democratics charged the Republicans with using the Pension Office to make votes. Certainly nothing the Republicans ever did even remotely approached the shamelessness of the Democratic pension peddling now going on. The Indianapolis Sentinel is on record on the subject. On the 25th of October, 1884, under the head of "The Pension-promise Swindle," it said.

"One of the electioneering schemes of the Republicans is to promise to all applicants for pensions that, if they will vote the Republican ticket, their pensions will be procured. The men who make these representations know them to be made for no other purpose than that to induce the poor and the injured to sell their birthright. The Republican party cannot procure a pension for any man. Pensions are obtained on the evidence in each particular case. If a man was injured in the federal service, he makes his application to the department and submits his case on the evidence. The case proceeds just the same as a case in a court of law. The success or failure of it depends on the evidence, and unless there should be a gross and unballowed violation of official duty a Republican applicant stands in not one whit better position before the department than a Democratic applicant. When the Republican party holds out to an applicant for a pension that it can procure his pension if he votes its ticket, it is an endeavor to bribe that applicant, and attempting to bribe by a false pretense adds infamy to the act. Of all the mean things ever done by the Repubicans in the way of attempted coercion, was amazing to one that the God and morality party should lend itself to such atrocious and abominable things. Let no Democratic applicant for pension be caught by any such chaff. It is a fraudulent argument and false

Thus the Sentinel in 1884. We commend its words to the old soldiers who are now being plied by Democratic pension peddlers all over the State. If the Republicans really did try this game in 1884, it did not win No more will the Democrats win by it this year.

INDIANA AND HER CANDIDATE.

A gentleman who has lately returned from quite an extended Eastern trip brings back word that wherever he went he was met with inquiries concerning Indiana and her candidate for the presidency, his interviewers generallying prefacing their questions with the remark that they had known little or nothing of our State till General Harrison was nominated. Questions on the political situation, of course, predominated; but quite a large proportion of the queries related to our resources, manufactures, people and industries. So it is everywhere; not only has our candidate attracted thousands of visitors from all over the country, many of whom had never before been through our State, but it has gone out to the people of the United States. and to those of other lands, that the State of Indiana has been honored by the nomination of one of her sons to the highest office in the gift of this, the greatest nation of the world. So has the name and fame of Indiana spread with that of her dis tinguished candidate, and in his honor is she glorified. Through him are the eyes not only of this, but of other nations, turned upon us, and from a comparatively unknown section Indiana has sprung into sudden and universal prominence. All good business men know the value of advertising. It is the life of trade. Nor are its benefits confined to business venture alone. A county or a State profits as much by advertising as does a merchant. Here we have the greatest advertisement that can come to any city, or county, or State, the selection of one of our own citizens for the presidential candidacy, and no one, not even those Democrats who are loudest in crying down State pride and local sentiment in a campaign, dare dispute the statement that the candidacy of Benjamin Harrison has been one of the most fortunate circumstances in the history of Indiana.

If this be true, what then would be the effect of his election to the presidency? Would it not increase ten-fold the attention which our State is even now receiving throughout the country? Would it not increase more than ten-fold all the advantages even now accruing to us from the simple fact of his candidacy, so that like our neighbors-Ohio and Illinois-each of whom has been honored, as we are honored now, we could in a few years stand in the front rank of the States of the Union, where, by all right of industry and resources we properly belong. Our inducements for both capital and labor are unexcelled. What we need is an advertisement, and to-day we have within our grasp not only the possibility of securing such prominence as would turn the eyes of the world upon our State, but, also, of possessing the proudest honor known to our confederation-the title so long and proudly worn by Virginia, mother of Presidents. Shall we not take advantage of it, Democrats and Republicans alike, for the glory of the State. for the honor of our Hoosier name, for the advancement of Indiana, for our individual pride and our combined prosperity?

POLITICAL MURDER.

This is the first political campaign since the var in which deliberate political murders have occurred in the North. Such murders are common in the South, and during the war they were of occasional occurrence in the North. In this State the organized opposition of the Democratic party to the prosecution of the war, the recruiting of volunteers, the enforcement of the draft, etc., added to the intensity of politics, and it was not an uncommon thing for Republicans to be assassinated In recent years our hottest political campaigns have been comparatively temperate, and murder has almost ceased to be a factor in politics.

But it looks as if the era of political homicides had been revived. Two Republicans have been murdered in this State during the present campaign. In both cases the killing was done by Democrats, and done in a very cowardly way. In one instance a young man was waylaid and murderously attacked by numbers he could not resist, and in the other a weakly person was beaten and stamped to death by a burly brute greatly his superior in physical strength. This happened at Kokomo a few days ago. The same issue of the Journal that related this occurrence also contained an account of a brutal assault on Gen. A. S. Bushnell, of Springfield, O., by a gang of Democratic roughs, who beat him so that his life is de spaired of. In all these cases, the motive solely political. It was the Democratic met od of closing argument, and enforcing conviction. It evinces the same spirit as that which inspired the Ku-klux outrages and shotgun policy of the South, the midnight-riders and red-shirt assassins; but we do not think it will be equally successful. Murder, as a factor in politics, can hardly be popularized in the North. The Democracy will probably find it advisable to rely on the more peaceable methods of fraud.

THE "UNION LABOR" DEAL.

Evidence accumulates that the managers of the Union Labor party here are in a "deal" of some sort with the Democratic managers. The Journal was shown, last night, two envelopes addressed to a prominent Union Labor man in another county, one of which contained Cleveland and Thurman "stickers" of like type to the Union Labor ballot, with a circular designed to influence only Union Labor voters. The other envelope contained a savage attack upon General Harrison by Secretary Sharpe, of th Union Labor party, the effect of which is intended to have the Union Labor voter abandon his own candidate and unite on Cleveland, in order to more certainly defeat Harrison. there ever anything meaner than this? It is ! The two envelopes were mailed from Indianapolis together, the postoffice stamp showing simultaneous mailing. These have, doubtless, gone all over the State. It is part and parcel of the "deal" that has been on between the Democratic managers and the se-called "Labor" tricksters and schemers throughout the whole campaign. We put the voters of the State on their guard.

WE received, yesterday, a copy of the following circular, which is being distributed by the Democrats. This one was sent a colored man in Jeffersonville:

"INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 1, 1888. "Dear Sir-You will find in the bands of the committeeman of your precinct $5 for election day; under no circumstances allow the Democrats to purchase your vote. "Respectfully,

"REP. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE." The circular is a forgery, its object evidently being to make colored men expect money for their votes and then take them in. We also received from Warren, Ind., a copy of the fraudulent Democratic circular headed "Stand Firm." which was exposed in the Journal several days ago, addressed "To the Republicans of Indiana," and signed "By Onder of the Committee." This circular was found in a copy of the Journal sent in the mails, and addressed to a Republican-additional evidence that thieves and criminals are in charge of the postal service. It is one of the numberless outcroppings of Democratic fraud, and shows the extent and variety of their "good schemes."

THE following extract from the New York Herald, the Democratic organ, explains why Lord Sackville was so summarily dismissed, after Cleveland and Bayard had played with him for nearly ten days. The Washington dispatches in the Herald of Wednesday said:

"The following is the substance of a telegram received this morning by a member of the Cabinet from several members of the Democratic national committee in New York: Washington telegrams in to-day's papers are most disappointing about the Sackville matter. Does the President know that the Irish vote is slipping out of our hands because of diplomatic shilly-shallying? See L. at once. Something ought to be done to-day." And on that day Lord Sackville received his passports from Mr. Bayard.

SOUTHERN Indiana is flooded with spurious tickets bearing the Republican heading, but followed by the Democratic electors and State candidates. The same is true of other parts of the State. This, of itself, is a confession of defeat by the Democrats, who now hope to gain the election by a series of systematic frauds that no party confident of victory would contemplate. Watch the Democratic ticket-peddlers on election day.

THE bulldozing tactics of Democracy have a fresh illustration in the outrageous attempt te intimidate and keep away from the polls legal Republican voters in Putnam and other counties. It is on a par with the Ku-klux methods of the Southern disfranchisers, and should be met with renewed energy by Republicans everywhere in seeing that every voter is brought to the polls, and that the vote is placed in the ballot-box. The bluffers should be taught a lesson they will not forget in years to come.

A BUFFALO special says that Grover Cleveland's tax was $96.13. No affidavit was filed with assessors. A letter from Cleveland to his late partner on the subject, stating that he was not a resident of Buffalo and did not intend to return there, was read to the assessors, but not filed; and thereupon the tax was remitted. "State pride" will hardly be much of an influence toward electing a man who slips out of paying his share of State taxes.

AT every election since 1860 Indiana Republicans have fought Democratic frauds and when they have succeeded in electing their candidates it has been because their watchfulness overcame the corrupt schemes of their opponents. At no time since that year has the Democracy been more desperate or unscrupulous than now, and it behooves every Republican to be on guard to outwis

THE only reason the Mississippi shotgun and buildozing policy has not been adopte by Indiana Democrats, is because the Republicans here are not to be intimidated like the blacks of the South. The spirit which prevails in Mr. Cleveland's party is the same

One of the methods of 1884 that cost us many

votes was by the inspector sitting in such a position that he must change the ticket from one hand to the other before putting it in the box. Another method was to set the light during the counting at night on a pile of encyclopedias or books of some kind, and the ballot-box down by the side on the deak partly away from the warehers, and then during the counting to oceasionally stir up the tickets with a pencil, working them toward the front of the box, and then play sick or tired, and in fitting key in the box withdraw a ticket or two, and locking the box retire from the room leaving the box in care of the Republicar judge and the clerks. For every ticket thus withdrawn a good Democratic one was put back. This was repeated three or four times in one voting precinct during the counting at night in 1884, and a Democratic majority of about forty-eight on a careful poll, increased to one of sixty-six. You can readily see how this will work and how it can be done. I think these two schemes are the chief ones they are relying on for success this year. Please do not use my name, but write this up in a form that will warn all. I know what I am talking
